About this course

Human languages are complicated and diverse—but also highly systematic. This course provides a basic introduction to these systematic, structural properties of human language, as illuminated by modern linguistic theory. We will examine the methods employed by linguists, as well as some of the key results from this work. We will also consider some of the social, philosophical, and cognitive aspects of human language.

By the end of this course, you should be able to...

- Explain the properties that make human language unique
- Find patterns and regularities in linguistic data
- Infer from these patterns what kind of knowledge all language-speakers must share
- Understand the basics of linguistic theory and how this theory explains the fundamental properties of human language

This course is not about 'proper' grammar or how to learn hundreds of languages (in fact, we'll see that linguistics is not about these things at all).

Hybrid on-site/online courses

This is a hybrid on-site/online course. Class meetings for the two sections of the course will run at the same time—on-site students will meet on campus, and online students will join the class meeting via telepresence.

Students registered for the on-site section must attend class in person. Very occasionally, in emergency situations, I may grant permission for individual on-site students to attend one class meeting via telepresence, but this must be approved ahead of time.

Online students must have access to reliable high-speed internet, a computing device with a full keyboard, equipment to receive and transmit video and audio, and headphones (preferably over-ear).

During each class meeting, online students should act as if they were in a physical classroom. Online students must attend class in a quiet area with no distractions, not be engaged in any other activities (cooking, cleaning, driving, etc.), participate in discussions, and attend every class session. Online students must transmit video throughout the entire class session—audio-only participation is not allowed.

Materials

Required Course Textbook

Language Files: Materials for an Introduction to Language and Linguistics, 12th Edition. Ohio State University Press. ISBN: 0814252702.

- Please be sure to get the 12th edition (it has a big '12' on it). Other editions will not be usable for this course.

Handouts

Handouts for each unit will be posted on Blackboard. It is your responsibility to bring the appropriate handouts with you to every class meeting, either in digital or dead tree format.

Assignments and Grading

Homework

There will be approximately one homework assignment per unit.

Work must be typed and submitted as a PDF via the course Blackboard site (too many linguistic fonts go wrong in Word documents). Work submitted in another format will receive a zero.

Collaboration is permitted on homework assignments under the following conditions:

Each person must write up and hand in their own assignment.

Any answers, explanations, or reasoning in the assignment must be written in your own words.

If you and another person hand in nearly identical assignments (as judged by me), I reserve the right to require you to work alone from then on.

You must clearly indicate at the top of the assignment who you collaborated with.

A guiding principle: You must always do your own work—this means that you must state things in your own words and show that you understand any ideas that you got from another source.

In-class exercises

We will occasionally have in-class exercises and problem sets. These cannot be made up if you are absent.

Final exam

We will have a take-home final exam, due on Sunday 12/8 at 11:59pm.

Grade breakdown

Category	Percent	Numerical score	Letter grade
Homework	50%	95–100%	A+
In-class assignments	10%	90–94.99%	A
Participation	10%	85–89.99%	B+
Take-home final	30%	80–84.99%	B
		75–79.99%	C+
		70–74.99%	C
		65–69.99%	D+
		60–64.99%	D
		>60%	F

Policies and expectations

Attendance, punctuality, and participation

You are expected to come to (every) class and to participate fully in class discussions and exercises. Please make an effort to arrive on time. (Repeat tardiness may be counted as an absence.)

If you know you will be absent, email me ahead of time. If the absence is documented and justifiable, it may be excused (at the discretion of the instructor).

Participation counts for 10% of your grade in this course, for both on-site and online students. A student who attends class regularly and does not disrupt other students, but does not otherwise contribute, will earn at best a C for this category.

Ways to earn a better participation grade	Ways to earn a worse participation grade
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Attempt to answer questions (even if you're not sure!) ● Ask questions about the material being discussed or course readings ● Share comments about relevant outside information ● Come to office hours ● Email me with questions and comments about course content 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Have unexcused absences ● Frequently arrive to class late ● Fail to pay attention during class ● Use electronic devices for non-course activities ● Engage in disruptive or distracting behavior ● Disrespect others

After 3 unexcused absences, you will automatically receive an F for the course.

Religious holy days

Texas law requires institutions of higher education to excuse a student from attending classes or other required activities, including examinations, for the observance of a religious holy day. The student shall also be excused for time necessary to travel.

An institution may not penalize the student for the absence and allows for the student to take an exam or complete an assignment from which the student is excused. The student should make up any missed work.

TTU policy indicates that a student who intends to observe a religious holy day should make that intention known to the instructor prior to the absence.

See OP 34.19 at <https://www.depts.ttu.edu/opmanual/OP34.19.pdf> for more information.

Late work

Assignments must be submitted on time—this is at the start of class, unless otherwise specified. Assignments turned in after the deadline will receive zero points. There is no partial credit for late work.

This course has a one-time no-questions-asked pass on this policy applicable only to homework assignments (and not to in-class assignments or exams). To use it, you must email the instructor before the original deadline, and turn in the assignment no later than one class meeting after the original deadline.

Extraordinary circumstances

Life is complicated—illnesses and injuries happen. If these or other life events are interfering with your ability to meet course requirements, please let me know as soon as possible.

Email

Some course-related announcements will be made over email. These messages will be sent to your TTU address, which you should check at least daily. Failure to check your TTU email will not excuse you from any requirements assigned via email.

Please include the course number in the subject line of any emails you send me (as well as an actual subject). If you are sending from an account other than your TTU address, please include your full name in the message body.

Civility in the classroom and electronic devices

Students are expected to maintain a polite, civil environment that is conducive to learning for everyone. This includes refraining from non-approved uses of electronic devices, or use of such devices that becomes distracting for other students.

Breaches of decorum may result in expulsion from the classroom or consequences for your final grade.

Accommodations for students with disabilities

Any student who, because of a disability, may require special arrangements in order to meet the course requirements, should contact the instructor as soon possible to make the necessary arrangements. Students should present appropriate verification from Student Disability Services during the instructor's office hours. Please note that instructors are not allowed to provide classroom accommodation to a student until appropriate verification from Student Disability Services has been provided. For additional information, please contact the Student Disability Services office in 335 West Hall or call (806) 742-2405.

Academic integrity

Cheating and plagiarism will be treated very seriously. As a general policy, all such cases will be referred to the Office of Student Conduct with a recommendation for the fullest sanctions, including failure for the course. It is your responsibility to familiarize yourself with TTU's statement on academic integrity, which is available at <http://www.depts.ttu.edu/studentconduct/academicinteg.php>, and related policies in the Student Handbook Part I, Section B, Subsection 1 (<http://www.depts.ttu.edu/dos/handbook/conduct.php>) and Part II, Section B (<http://www.depts.ttu.edu/dos/handbook/community.php>).

You are encouraged to form study groups outside of class to help you understand the course material and discuss readings, however you may not collaborate on homework assignments.

If you have any questions, please consult the instructor, a dean, or the University's academic integrity policy.
